Making a set of strategies for enabling the organization to be a winner instead of loser.

For the purpose of making the above statement, here in this research, we try to analyze the elements that are needed to be considered in making a proper organization. As a result of this research, we will come to a conclusion as a recommendation to PT. Reckitt Benckiser Indonesia to be implemented after the acquisition to avoid the elements which are concluded as the important elements to have a more attention in controlling the whole organization.